28 February 2025

Message from the Chapter President

I hope everyone had wonderful holidays and survived our chilly January weather. It's hard to believe that we are two months into 2025 already. Last year proved to be a great year for the chapter. Our inaugural Army Birthday Golf Tournament was a seminal event, raising much needed funds for the chapter and allowing us to establish a scholarship fund for junior and senior ROTC programs in central Virginia. The chapter also supported recruit signing day at the Virginia War Memorial, toured and learned about Tech for Troops, supported the Virginia State Raider Challenge qualifier for JROTC cadets, and hosted a Holiday Open House at North Point Farm. We also were privileged to host GEN Bob Brown, president and CEO of AUSA, for a day of leadership training with Virginia Army National Guard and University of Richmond ROTC cadets. The culminating dinner that night also saw the chapter recognizing excellence in Army recruiting and Soldier and NCO of the Year for the VAARNG.

Building on success, the chapter will continue to focus on its two main lines of effort, support to Army recruiting and junior and senior ROTC programs, looking for opportunities to recognize excellence and work with unit leadership for ways the chapter can support their mission accomplishment.

As one of 19 chapters in AUSA's Second Region, the chapter will host the region spring meeting in May. An annual event, this business meeting allows the leadership of the chapters to gather, network, get updates from AUSA National and exchange ideas and best practices. This year, we will host from AUSA HQ in Arlington, VA, a change that will leverage the substantial logistical and conferencing assets of the facility and staff.

The chapter will again hold the Army Birthday Golf Tournament on 12 June, this year celebrating the U.S. Army's 250th birthday. Please use the flyer at the end of the newsletter to get the word out to your colleagues, family and friends. Our goal is to celebrate the best Army in the world, to have a great day of golf and fun activities, and to raise $15,000 for chapter programs including expanding our scholarship programs.

Not only will the U.S. Army turn 250, but AUSA will also reach a milestone, 75 years of support to the Army. Established by Army leadership in 1950 to be the premier association representing all components of America's Army, AUSA celebrates its 75th anniversary this year.

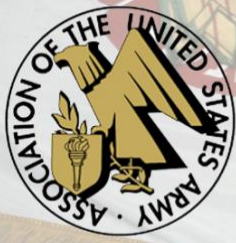

I'll wrap up by asking for your support to recruit Community Partners. AUSA Community Partners are businesses and organizations seeking local opportunities, partnerships, and recognition. The number of chapter community partners is directly proportional to our chapter's mission accomplishment. Community Partners honor those who make personal sacrifices to protect American freedoms, seek tangible ways to support our troops, and are invested in seeing their organizations thrive in their communities. If a business you frequent has Community Partner potential, please contact Brian Fortier, chapter VP for Community Partners (fortierbj@gmail.com; (804) 364-9846) or me, and we will follow up. Thank you for all you do to support our chapter and the Army in central Virginia.

ENLISTMENT MARKS REACTIVATION OF 29th DIVARTY

By SFC Terra Gatti, PAO VAARNG

RICHMOND, Va. —

After nearly two decades, the Virginia Army National Guard celebrated the activation of the 29th Division

Artillery (DIVARTY) with the enlistment of Pvt. Tariq Rahaman in a ceremony held Jan. 14, 2025, at the Virginia National Guard Sgt. Bob Slaughter Headquarters, located at Defense Supply Center Richmond, Virginia. Col. Shawn Talmadge, commander of the 29th DIVARTY, administered Rahaman's oath and spoke about the significance of the event.

"We're building a new unit in Virginia, and that doesn't come but every couple decades,"

Talmadge said. “We’re really excited about the activation of the 29th DIVARTY, and in preparation for that, the Recruiting and Retention Battalion is working hard and so what we have today is Pvt. Rahaman, who will be the first new Soldier enlisted into the 29th DIVARTY.”

“The 29th DIVARTY will plan, prepare, execute and assess combined arms operations to provide close support and precision strike for the 29th Infantry Division,” said Maj. Jonathan Fair, executive officer for the 29th DIVARTY, which, he explained, is a returned capability to the state.

At the close of annual training in 2005, Fort Barfoot echoed with the roar of cannon fire, the air thick with gun smoke, as the 29th DIVARTY conducted its final salute. Later that year, a small ceremony at the 29th Division Headquarters at Fort Belvoir marked the official inactivation of the historic unit.

“The new 29th DIVARTY will continue the proud lineage of its namesake from World War II that provided artillery for the 29th Infantry Division from the beaches of Normandy to Victory in Europe Day,” Fair said.

“In preparation for the Army’s focus on Large Scale Combat Operations, the U.S. Army is reintroducing DIVARTYs back into the National Guard,” Fair said.

Before administering the oath of enlistment to Rahaman, Talmadge explained that he will serve as a 35F Intelligence Analyst.

At just 21-years-old, Rahaman said he was excited for the opportunity to serve in the new unit, and for the opportunities available in the organization.

“So far, my experience has been really nice. Everyone is really cool, everyone is really respectful, and I feel like I’m at home,” Rahaman said. “It’s pretty cool to be the first in.”

Currently, Rahaman is studying computer science at Northern Virginia Community College, and said he had several motivators for joining the Virginia Army National Guard.

“I looked into it and was like, ‘wow, it comes with a lot of opportunities,’” he said. “Besides the financial benefits, it comes with discipline, a better mentality and I feel like it’s something that could lead me to a better future.”

Rahaman is scheduled to begin initial training later this year, in May. In anticipation of that, he’ll start attending regular one-weekend-a-month drill periods with the Virginia Army National Guard’s Recruit Sustainment Program, which will ensure he is physically, mentally and administratively ready for the rigors of Basic Combat Training and Advanced Individual Training.

The CavBat continues to train hard in preparation for Cadet Summer Training, which includes Advanced Camp, Basic Camp, and several specialty schools to include

They are also planning and coordinating their semesterly class community service projects, which are not required, but are a time-honored tradition each semester in the CavBat to give back to the community.

Lastly, the CavBat participated in the Fightin' Irish Invitational basketball tournament hosted by the University of Notre Dame. This tournament is open to all ROTC programs nationwide. A SALUTE TO SOLDIERS CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR

SGT. John Philip Baca

Company D, 1st BN., 12th Cavalry,
1st Cavalry Division

On Feb. 10, 1970, Baca, then a specialist 4th Class, and his platoon volunteered to go with another platoon on a night mission near Quan Loi in Phuoc Province, along the Cambodian border. The first platoon was sent to investigate a trip wire that had gone off ahead of his unit's main position. Quickly, they came under intense enemy fire from concealed positions along the trail.

Baca knew his recoilless rifle team could help the besieged patrol, so he led them through a hail of gunfire to a place where they could fire back within the first patrol's defensive perimeter. Just around that time, a fragmentation grenade landed in their midst.

"It's like time stopped," Baca remembered. "All these thoughts go through my mind, and I knew it was going to go off."

He said he pushed his best friend, Art James, out of the way and warned the rest of the men around him before he unhesitatingly covered the grenade with his steel helmet and fell onto the explosive device, just as it went off." It was like slow motion. I just kind of slowly fell on top of it," Baca said. "My whole life flashed through me, and my childhood. It was like my mom and my sisters were right in front of me. The next thing he knew, he was lying on his back." I thought I was severed in half. There was no pain," he told the Veterans History Project. "From what I heard, I guess the lieutenant grabbed me by the shirt and pulled me out so they could clear the area."

While some of the other soldiers were injured, Baca's actions saved eight men from serious injury or death. Baca was quickly flown by medevac to a military hospital, then transferred to Japan for more serious treatment. He was eventually sent to a naval hospital in San Diego and underwent several surgeries. Baca spent nearly a full year in hospitals to treat his many wounds. He was discharged from the Army as a sergeant, one day before the anniversary of his heroic action.

The Medal of Honor presentation was on June 15, 1971 at the White House in the East Ballroom and presented by President Richard M. Nixon.
